Contents

List of contributors ix
Foreword xi

PART 1: DIAGNOSIS

1 Classification and Prevalence of Food Hypersensitivity 3
   Carina Venter
   1.1 Introduction 3
   1.2 Nomenclature and classification 3
   1.3 Immunological basis of food allergy 6
   1.4 Symptoms associated with food hypersensitivity 9
   1.5 Prevalence 9
   1.6 Conclusion 17

2 The Role of Food Hypersensitivity in Different Disorders 22
   2.1 The role of food hypersensitivity in skin disorders 22
       Rosan Meyer and George Du Toit
   2.2 The role of food hypersensitivity in respiratory disorders 31
       Isabel Skypaia
   2.3 The role of food hypersensitivity in gastrointestinal disorders 37
       Miranda Lomer
   2.4 The role of food hypersensitivity in behavioural disorders 58
       Donna C. McCann, Zoe Connor
   2.5 The role of food hypersensitivity in neurological disorders 68
       Sue Luscombe, Susan Thurgood
   2.6 The role of food hypersensitivity in musculoskeletal disorders 81
       Anna Carling

3 The Diagnosis of Food Hypersensitivity 85
   Carina Venter, Berber Vlieg-Boerstra and Anna Carling
   3.1 Introduction 85
   3.2 Clinical history 85
   3.3 Diagnostic tests 86
   3.4 Complementary and alternative medicine 90
   3.5 Diagnostic exclusion diets 92
   3.6 Oral food challenges 94
   3.7 Conclusion 103
4 Triggers of Food Hypersensitivity

Isabel Skypala

4.1 Introduction 107
4.2 Allergens and the immune system 107
4.3 Food allergen classes and nomenclature 108
4.4 How does a food allergen induce allergy? 108
4.5 Classification of food allergens 109
4.6 Advances in food allergen technology 110
4.7 Peanut allergens 111
4.8 Food labelling 112

PART 2: DIETARY MANAGEMENT

5 Milk and Eggs

Tanya Wright and Rosan Meyer

5.1 Introduction 117
5.2 Cow’s milk 117
5.3 Egg allergy 128

6 Seafood

Isabel Skypala

6.1 Introduction 136
6.2 Prevalence and natural history 136
6.3 Foods involved 137
6.4 Diagnosis 139
6.5 Avoidance 142

7 Fruits and Vegetables

Isabel Skypala

7.1 Introduction 147
7.2 Prevalence and natural history 147
7.3 Foods involved 149
7.4 Presenting symptoms and diagnosis 157
7.5 Management 160

8 Peanuts, Legumes, Seeds and Tree Nuts

Ruth Towell

8.1 Peanuts 166
8.2 Other legumes 171
8.3 Seeds 174
8.4 Tree nuts 176

9 Food Hypersensitivity Involving Cereals

9.1 Coeliac disease

Norma McGough, Emma Merrikin and Emily Kirk

9.2 Allergy to wheat and other cereals

Isabel Skypala
PART 3: OTHER ASPECTS OF MANAGEMENT, ALLERGY PREVENTION AND NUTRITIONAL CONSIDERATIONS

11 Nutritional Consequences of Avoidance, and Practical Approaches to Nutritional Management

Ruth Kershaw

11.1 Introduction
11.2 Assessment of dietary adequacy
11.3 Factors affecting nutritional status
11.4 Ensuring optimal nutritional status while following a food-avoidance diet
11.5 The nutritional consequences of avoiding a number of common food allergens
11.6 Vitamin and mineral supplements
11.7 Other common nutritional issues encountered when implementing food-avoidance diets
11.8 Conclusion

12 Lifestyle Issues

Tanya Wright

12.1 Introduction
12.2 The burden of anaphylaxis and food allergy
12.3 The importance of reintroduction of foods
12.4 Cross-contamination
12.5 Items on prescription
12.6 Recipe information
12.7 Product information
12.8 Awareness products
12.9 Nurseries, childminders and carers
12.10 Managing food allergy at school
12.11 Managing food allergy at home
12.12 Managing food allergy at work
12.13 Eating out
12.14 Going on holiday
12.15 Support and resources

13 Allergy Prevention and the Effect of Nutrition on the Immune System

Carina Venter

13.1 Introduction
13.2 Introduction to the immune system
13.3 Supporting the immune system through nutrition
13.4 Conclusions
14  Management of Allergic Disease
   14.1  Allergic rhinitis
          Samantha Walker
   14.2  Asthma
          Jane Leyshon
   14.3  Atopic eczema
          Helen Cox
   14.4  Anaphylaxis
          Samantha Walker

Appendix 1:  Patient information literature for a food challenge
Appendix 2:  Food challenge protocol for adults
Appendix 3:  Food challenge procedures
Appendix 4:  Prolonged open food challenge procedures
Appendix 5:  Food challenge form
Appendix 6:  Food challenge symptom score chart
Appendix 7:  Dietary management summaries

Index  